The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Martinez et al 6,319,161.

Martinez shows an arrow head having a ferrule, and a blade assembly extending from the ferrule, the blade having a first planar portion 11 in a plane parallel to the axis of the ferrule; a second portion 12 disposed at an angle to the plane of the first portion; and a continuously curved portion 10 connecting the first and second portions.

Claims 8-12 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 13-25 are allowed.

The prior art does not disclose an arrow head including a ferrule, and a blade coupled to the ferrule and extending outward in two opposite directions, the blade having a planar portion, and two curved portions disposed at an angle to the planar portion, and at an angle to the axis of the ferrule.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
